

CONVENTION ADJOURNS UNTIL MONDAY

LA FOLLETTE WILL OPEN HEADQUARTERS EARLY NEXT WEEK IN CHICAGO

Representative John M. Nelson Will Be Manager For Independent Candidate—Insurgent Heads Off Move of Socialists For Third Party.

Convention Hall, Cleveland, July 5.—The final details for the christening party of the newly born presidential candidacy of Senator Robert M. La Follette, Republican of Wisconsin, were completed today at the second session of the conference for Progressive Political Action.

After disposing of the usual organizational and listening to another avalanche of speeches, the convention settled down to await the christening at which La Follette would be formally endorsed as the progressive candidate.

Upon recommendation of the credentials committee, the convention rejected all credentials presented by communists, or members of organizations allied, even remotely with the workers party. La Follette himself specifically asked that this be done.

In the rejected list was William Mahoney, of St. Paul, chairman of the recent communist controlled farmer-labor party convention in St. Paul. The action was cheered by the convention.

Convention Hall, Cleveland, O., July 5.—National campaign headquarters for Senator Robert M. La Follette, Republican of Wisconsin, who has entered the presidential race as an independent progressive will be opened in Chicago Monday, Representative John M. Nelson, Republican of Wisconsin, his campaign manager, announced here today.

Nelson, who is representing La Follette's interests at the Conference for Progressive Political Action, declared he would leave Cleveland for Chicago tonight after adjournment of the convention and immediately map out plans for the campaign that will be carried at once into every state in the country.

La Follette himself will not leave Washington for about ten days, Nelson declared. Then he will go to Chicago to meet his campaign managers, national and state, later going to his home in Madison, Wis. During the last, Nelson said, La Follette plans to speak in all the large industrial centers of the nation.

An announcement is expected shortly from La Follette naming all his campaign managers. Already Representative Edward Brown, Republican of Wisconsin, has been agreed upon to head the congressional campaign committee, and W. T. Raleigh, of Freeport, Illinois, as publicity director, it was learned.

A central committee composed of each state leader, will have direct charge of the campaign.

Robert M. La Follette, Jr., will work with Nelson in directing the entire force, leaving the senator free from campaign worries so that he can devote himself most exclusively to speech-making.

La Follette's formal announcement of his candidacy, made a day earlier than scheduled, was hailed by the managers of the conference which went into its final session today as a master stroke of political strategy. It was believed to have headed off finally any chances of the Socialists to force the conference to form a new third party at once, a move which La Follette's opposition, Socialists under Morris Hillquit, of New York, virtually abandoned their fight, the only problem before the convention that loomed as seriously troublesome. La Follette also killed off communists who were seeking representation. The platform fight was settled when he declared for the doctrinal creed that was presented by the Wisconsin delegation to the Republican convention.

The letter also paved the way for the conference to the first political organization to endorse him. Leaders set four o'clock as the hour when the question of supporting La Follette would be taken up.

The time for endorsing La Follette was set for late in the day. It was learned, because a group of railroad unionists have informed William Gibbs McAdoo that endorsement of the Wisconsin senator would be with-

Columbus, O., July 5.—That the tax rate of this county, Franklin—may be reduced 25 per cent soon is the belief voiced today by County Auditor Thatcher who directed the three months work of re-appraising all property in Franklin county. The reappraisal has just been completed. The present tax rate is $2.50.

Thatcher said that due to the new valuations, this rate may be cut to less than $1.90.

Peru Observes the Fourth.

Lima, Peru, July 5.—The Fourth of July was declared a full national holiday by executive decree in tribute to the American nation.

PLATFORM BEING ADOPTED NOW BY CLEVELAND MEETING

Cleveland, July 5.—Four men members of the committee on platform and resolutions of the Conference for Progressive Political Action, assembled here, were closeted today drafting the platform upon which Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, will face the nation in his independent campaign for the presidency. This draft will be presented to the full committee, and later in the day placed before the conference for formal adoption.

The platform will be made to order for the militant progressive bristling with savage denunciation of the methods of big business and promising the American people freedom from the "private monopoly system" and the "trusts."

It will promise federal operation and control of the railroads with subsequent reductions in freight rates on farm products. It will pledge repeal of the Esch-Cummins transportation act.

It will attack the "deflation policy" of the federal reserve board and promise a reformation of the great financial organization in such a manner as to afford the farmer easier credit facilities.

It will promise the lessening of the tax burden upon wage earners and the application of higher assessments on "swollen incomes."

The paramount issue, however, will be that of the breaking of monopolies.

PROPOSALS TO BE OFFERED BY FRANCE

Paris, July 5.—It was announced at the French foreign office that the French government is not in accord with Prime Minister MacDonald on the agenda for the forthcoming allied conference in London set forth in the British premier's invitation to the other allies. The French, it was added, will be unable to accept the British idea of taking from the reparations commission the prerogative of deciding when Germany shall have defaulted in the execution of the Dawes plan. Mr. MacDonald's instructions to the British ambassador here in this connection are taken in Paris as mere suggestions concerning the agenda and the French delegation to the conference will have counter suggestions to present in London.

BOBBED HAIR AND GIVEN SUSPENSION

Columbus, July 5.—Ten student nurses at Grant hospital were suspended because they bobbed their hair. Miss Mary Jamieson, superintendent, several months ago established a rule at Grant hospital forbidding bobbing by student nurses while they were in training. The rule did not apply to graduate nurses. Excepting in Mt. Carmel and St. Clair hospitals, the question of bobbing is left to the discretion of the student nurses themselves, inquiry at Columbus hospitals revealed. At these hospitals student nurses are prohibited to have their hair cut.

SAYS OHIO IS NOT BIG ENOUGH TO PAY DAMAGE

Lorain Seeks Outside Aid To Carry Out Program.

Lorain, O., July 5.—The local relief committee of 25 announced it would appeal directly to President Coolidge for national aid, despite Governor Donahay's announcement that Ohio could handle the situation.

"Ohio is not large enough to pay for the damage in Lorain, and should not be asked to do so," Mayor George Hoffman, committee chairman, declared. He set the amount needed immediately at $8,000,000.

The State theater wreckage has been completely cleared. No additional bodies were found either there or in the bath house. Two names were added to the death list from burial permits. They are Mrs. Carrie Smith and Charles Bouse.

The Cleveland community fund has appropriated $100,000 as an emergency first aid contribution to assist in alleviating conditions brought about by the Lorain storm. It is to be paid subject to the order of the American Red Cross.

MESSAGE IS SENT TAMMANY BY SMITH

New York, July 5.—In an Independence day message to Tammany hall, Governor Alfred Smith said:

"The well-springs of our national life are in the Declaration of Independence and in the constitution of the United States. The spiritual freedom guaranteed in these documents is more vital to us than the safeguarding of our material possessions. Tolerance is a moral right. Whatever threatens freedom of religion, of speech, of the press, is a body blow at the United States of America. I have such abiding faith in the institutions of our government and the good sense of the American people that I refuse to believe that intolerance can ever gain so much as a foothold in this country. Fear and hatred never survive courage and reason. For tolerance we will always battle willingly, because the foundations of peace and progress are rooted therein."

COOLIDGE URGES ATTENDANCE AT PUBLIC SCHOOLS

President Addresses National Education Association in East.

Washington, July 5.—In an address before the National Education Association, President Coolidge declared that successful business has been the principal factor in raising the nation to its present greatness. The president paid tributes to education and the country's early leaders. The leaders, he said, gave the nation an inspired form of government and sacred traditions. Education protected the people's liberties and fostered social progress. Coolidge said he had had his early education in "the little one-room country school," but stated his belief that the modern tendency to combine country schools in consolidated units was preferable.

Jess E. H. Newlon, superintendent of schools in Denver, was elected president of the association. The convention in a resolution endorsed the Sterling-Reed education bill, the child labor amendment and pensions for teachers.

The president advocated compulsory education, if necessary, controlled and supported by the states under the guidance of the federal government. The administration has proposed in the government reorganization plan a department of education and relief to be presided over by cabinet officer, the president reminded the teachers in reference to their demands for a cabinet member on education. This plan, however, had his endorsement, he added, "bearing in mind that this does not mean any interference with the local control and dignity, but is rather an attempt to recognize the importance of educational effort."

Coolidge declared that ignorance is the most fruitful source of poverty, vice and crime, and "it is easy to realize the necessity for removing what is a menace, not only to our social well-being, but to the very existence of the republic." In this connection, he reminded the delegates there were 3,000,000 native illiterates in this country, as well as 4,000,000 foreign-born illiterate white persons. Many of the latter are above school age, he said, but, nevertheless, he insisted they be given the opportunity to read and write the English language "that they may come into more direct contact with the ideals and standards of our political and social life."

"It is necessary," the president concluded, "that education should be the handmaid of citizenship. Our institutions are constantly and very properly the subject of critical inquiry. Unless their nature is comprehended, unless their origin is understood, unless their value be properly assessed, the citizen falls ready prey to those selfish agitators who would exploit his prejudices to promote their own advantage."

BROWN TO START FEE COLLECTION

Columbus, July 5.—Secretary of State Thad H. Brown will start the collection of truck license fees Tuesday under the new truck law, he declared, after the state supreme court had refused to restrain the collection on application of the Polz Grocery and Baking company of Cincinnati. The secretary was enjoined in the Franklin county courts, but the injunction was dissolved by the court of appeals. A temporary restraining order was issued, however, until July 7 in order that the company might have an opportunity to file a petition in error. The state supreme court refused to grant a temporary injunction and the case will be held over for the full term of hearing on its merits.

SON OF PRESIDENT COOLIDGE IS ILL AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, July 5.—The condition of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., son of the president, who is seriously ill at the White House with blood poisoning, was unchanged at 7 o'clock this morning. Physicians have been in attendance at his bedside for 24 hours and both the president and Mrs. Coolidge were in and out of the sickroom during the night.

The illness, resulting from a broken blister on his foot, brought about during a tennis match, reached such a stage today that a consultation of physicians was called.

Dr. John Deaver, of Philadelphia, was called to Washington. He conferred Friday with White House physicians, Major James E. Coupal and Lieutenant Commander Joel T. Boone, and Dr. Charles W. Richardson, of Washington, and Colonel William L. Keller, in charge of Walter Reed Hospital.

Little attention at first was paid to the injury, which occurred while the two Coolidge boys were playing last Monday. It became serious Wednesday and last night the poison had spread throughout the body, aggravating the case considerably. A high fever resulted.

Calvin, Jr., is 15 years old. He returned to the White House from school at Mercersburg, Penn., with his brother John two weeks ago. The boys have passed all of their time since at the White House, expecting to enter the citizens' military training camp at Camp Devens, Mass., within a few days.

President and Mrs. Coolidge called off engagements for the remainder of the day and also a planned trip down the Potomac River on the Mayflower. The president kept an engagement Friday morning, however, to speak before the convention of the National Educational Association.

COX WITHDRAWS IN INTEREST OF PARTY

New York, July 5.—Former Governor James M. Cox of Ohio in his message to the chairman of the Ohio delegation, withdrawing from the race for the Democratic presidential nomination, said:

"Whenever in your judgment the withdrawal of my name from the consideration of the convention will promote harmony and bring the existing deadlock to an end, I trust you will, without delay, take such action as you deem advisable. I have no personal ambition that rises above my devotion to the Democracy, and this message to you is prompted by a desire to serve the cause that has honored me."

"Many persons remembering that I am the titular leader of the party unit a nomination is made have asked that counsel and advice be given in the midst of seeming complication. This is not necessary because the good sense and patriotism of the delegates can be depended upon. The choice of the convention becomes my choice and my time and strength will be given to his support the moment he is nominated."

CANDIDATES TO SEEK WAY OUT OF DEADLOCK AT NIGHT CONFERENCE

Saturday Session Closes After 77th Ballot With McAdoo In Lead With 513, Smith Second With 367 and Davis Third With 76 1-2.

Madison Square Garden, New York City, July 5.—The Democratic convention suddenly adjourned this afternoon at 3:40 until 11 o'clock, Eastern daylight saving time, Monday morning.

The motion to adjourn carried after almost unanimous acceptance of a resolution offered to call a conference of all of the candidates receiving votes on the seventy-seventh ballot or their representatives, the chairman of the convention and the chairman of the national convention to attempt to find a way out of the deadlock.

The conference will be held Saturday night, and pending the result it was deemed advisable to adjourn until Monday when the result of the conference can be reported. Out of a maze of resolutions offered during the day in an effort to find a solution to the problem tying up the convention, the conference idea was the first to pass and was greeted with cheers from the floor of the convention.

Delegates will get their first rest in many days as those not attending the conference will have an evening to themselves combined with the Sunday day of rest that should bring them back Monday refreshed and ready for some definite action in the longest Democratic nominating convention in history.

The convention later overwhelmingly rejected another proffered resolution providing that from the seventy-fourth ballot on the lowest candidate on each ballot be dropped until only two would be left and when this condition was reached, only five ballots could be taken.

The resolution provided that if at the end of five ballots no one was able to get two-thirds of the convention, then the unit rule be abolished and on the sixth ballot the candidate receiving the majority should be declared nominated.

The agreement between McAdoo and the Michigan delegation by which McAdoo was to receive twenty-five votes from that delegation for five ballots, expired after the seventy-third and McAdoo began losing on the seventy-fourth. On the same ballot Smith jumped to a high level of 364. He picked up two more votes on the seventy-fifth and in which he polled 368. McAdoo dropped to 510 on the seventy-fourth and polled 513 on the next two ballots.

Ohio began splitting up its votes this afternoon, dropping Newton D. Baker. J. W. Davis polled a high mark of 78 1-2 on the seventy-fourth and seventy-fifth and dropped to 75 1-2 on the seventy-sixth.

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 5.—The Democratic national convention here today voted down a proposal to adjourn and reconvene in the convention hall at Kansas City, Mo., July 21.

The motion was the third entered during the morning session in an effort to introduce a solution to the deadlock in which the delegates have been gripped since the opening day. Unable to determine by an oral vote what was the opinion of the convention a roll call was ordered and the measure was defeated by a vote of 1073 to 827 votes. Immediately the roll call was ordered on the seventy-fourth ballot, resulting in a loss for McAdoo while Smith reached the high peak of his balloting so far, with a vote of 364. Part of these came from the Ohio delegation which left the standard of Newton D. Baker, former war secretary.

Previous to the vote on the motion to change the place of convention, a movement which has been fostered by McAdoo supporters on the grounds the "atmosphere" in New York was detrimental to the chances of their candidate, former Senator Gilbert Hitchcock of Nebraska, introduced a resolution that was also defeated.

His proposal was to eliminate all but the five highest candidates for today's session only in an attempt to eliminate the favorite sons and let the leaders fight it out. There were 496 votes for the resolution but the "noes" won with 539 1-2.

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 5.—The Democratic national convention today voted down a resolution designed to narrow its history-making nomination fight to two men.

The resolution was sponsored by Ed H. Nemaas, a McAdoo delegate, from Oklahoma City. He proposed that the favorite son candidate receiving the lowest number of votes on each ballot after the 72nd be dropped from further consideration until finally all were eliminated but two men and the choice then be made of one of these two.

This inevitably would have narrowed the fight down to William G. McAdoo and Governor Al Smith—as demanded by McAdoo in a speech yesterday.

The Oklahoman, with the sanction of the McAdoo leaders, moved at the end of the 72nd ballot today to suspend the rules and adopt his resolution.

Chairman Walsh called for the "ayes" and "noes" and the "noes" won with a booming volume of objection.

The McAdoo forces provided the "ayes" and the anti-McAdoo the "noes."

Delegate Nemans demanded a roll call on his proposition, which would have required two thirds of the convention, but Walsh waved him down and ordered the roll call for the 73rd ballot.

The voting went on then to the 73rd ballot, the 71st and 72nd having failed to achieve any appreciable change in the relative standings of the various candidates.

New York, July 5.—Former Governor James M. Cox of Ohio has withdrawn from the race for the Democratic presidential nomination.

His action followed on the heels of that of Senator Kaestlin of Indiana. Other "favorite sons," however, remain in the race, including Glass of Virginia, Robinson of Arkansas, Ritchie of Maryland and Saulsbury of Delaware.

Meanwhile another attack was launched on the two-thirds rule governing nominations. The probabilities are that the unit rule and two-thirds rule are so closely associated in their purposes and effects that they will have to be attacked together or let alone.

With Cox out of the running the Ohio delegation switched its votes to Newton D. Baker.

William G. McAdoo reached a new high level on the sixty-ninth ballot last night, with 530 votes; Smith 335, Davis 64. This was a gain of 41.5 for McAdoo, a loss of one-half for Smith and 8 1/2 for Davis. This made McAdoo only 20 short of a majority, but 202 below the necessary two-thirds.

The sixty-eighth ballot showed these results: McAdoo 488.5, Smith 336.5, Davis 72.5. McAdoo lost one and a half, Smith was unchanged and Davis lost three.

The sixty-ninth ballot resulted: McAdoo 530, Smith 335, Davis of West Virginia 64, Underwood 38, Glass 25, Robinson 21, Ritchie 16.5, Saulsbury 6, Owen 2, Bryan 2, Baker 56, Davis 2.5; total, 1,098.

D. L. Rockwell, the McAdoo manager, made this statement: "The progressive McAdoo forces have withstood another round of concentrated fire, and are in better shape than ever. The opposition, for the first time since the balloting began, engaged in tactics calculated only to provide a breathing spell in which they may tighten their lines. It was the first round of open sparring for time, but we expect more in future sessions."

Efforts were made during the balloting to learn whether there was any disposition to withdraw on the part of Robinson, Saulsbury, Baker, Davis, Owen, Glass or Underwood. Governor Brandon seemed to sum up the sentiment when he shouted with indignation: "Leave Underwood? Why, we will be here voting for him when they kill hogs in the fall, if necessary."

Stormy Scene.

At last night's session Chairman Walsh read a letter from W. G. McAdoo suggesting that the convention near Governor Smith, as it had declined to do at the conclusion of the afternoon session. Gavin McNab of California, a McAdoo man, asked unanimous consent that the afternoon's action be reconsidered, and immediately precipitated one of those stormy scenes which have been characterized by hundreds of men shouting at one time and Chairman Walsh banging the heads of gavel as fast as they could be supplied. The Smith people shouted down the suggestion with such cries as "You've insulted the governor of this state once and now you want to do it again," and "Who's running this convention any way—the convention or some out side ad in California?" Finally, Chairman Walsh ordered the resumption of the call of the states in balloting and the storm passed over.

MONEY AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

ARE NATIONAL BANK NOTES SUPERIOR TO FEDERAL RESERVE NOTES?

THE INTEGRITY OF WEALTH NATIONAL U. S. FEDERAL RESERVE NOTE

BOTH ARE BACKED BY THE PEOPLE'S TRUST IN THE GOVERNMENT.

What points of superiority have National bank notes over Federal government paper money? Answered by BARNET NOVAK

Lecturer and Writer on Practical Economics.

National bank notes are issued by national banks. Federal Reserve notes and federal reserve bank notes are issued under the authority vested with the Federal Reserve Board. The government issues other paper money—yellow-backed gold certificates, greenbacks, silver certificates.

These are important differences in the way in which these different kinds of paper money are backed up. The yellow-backed actually represent deposits of gold in the U. S. Treasury. The greenbacks are backed by a specie reserve; the Federal Reserve and the Federal Reserve Bank notes by gold and commercial paper.

But all are obligations of the government to pay gold on demand and all are interchangeable. They rest on the people's trust in the government. For this reason National bank notes are in no way superior to Federal paper money.

JAMESTOWN GRANGE INITIATES NUMBER OF NEW MEMBERS

The third and fourth degrees were conferred on a class of seventeen candidates with especial ceremonies by Jamestown Grange at Jamestown Thursday night.

The Jamestown Grange degree team exemplified the work in both degrees. At the same time the Juvenile Grange held a meeting and program and it is estimated more than 300 Grangers and visitors attended the meetings.

Between the conferring of the third and fourth degrees five men and five women gave a drill, winding up by forming the initiations "P. of H." meaning Patrons of Husbandry. The rest of the program, because of the proximity of Independence Day, was patriotic in nature including the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner," a reading "Old Glory," by Miss Doris Smith; reading, "The Code of a Good American," by Noah Gordon; "How to Use the Flag," by Miss Irma Pedrick; singing of "America" by the audience.

Visitors included Grangers from South Solon, Mt. Pleasant, Xenia, Beaver and Caesar Creek Granges. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and lemonade were served and there were talks by several of the visitors.

CAREFUL PEOPLE REALIZE

That the Protection of Their Principal is More Important Than the Rate of Interest Promised.

Few can afford to speculate. Speculation sooner or later leads to loss. It has always been so. In the busy world of today homely advice of this sort is often ignored. It is nevertheless true.

For most people a deposit here on a 5 per cent Certificate is one of the best investments obtainable. No worry, no trouble. A check for the interest comes to you each six months by mail. Or it may be compounded semi-annually.

According to reports, a quiet Fourth of July was spent and contrary to expectations, no complaints were made to police, no injuries experienced of consequence and no fires occurred.

Parks did a rushing business.

How to build up your Weight

To be under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality.

It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus.

That's why S.S.S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body.

More red-blood-cells! S.S.S. will build them.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

MODISH MITZI--Silhouette Extremes Meet

Mitzi is dressed in a very new, very French, very smart summer frock with a full short skirt and semi-fitted bodice. Over it she wears a sleeveless jacket and she knows she's fashionable.

Judge of her dismay when she meets Eleanor dressed in the straightest of straight line effects in two shades of thin voile. And judge of Eleanor's feelings as well! The situation is full of difficulties.

And that is how it happens that these two modish young women meet the next day they are astonished again. Each has so much confidence in the other's judgment that she has changed—her frock and her silhouette and her opinions.

Eleanor wears the billowing frock (of embroidered voile) and Mitzi wears the pencil straight affair (of printed crepe), and so the problem is settled because both of them are entirely correct.

EUROPE IN TRANSITION

Berlin sends to the Allies a hedging and rather evasive note on the subject of military control. At the same time Premier Herriot in Paris is risking his political life by insisting that French forces be kept in the Ruhr region, even against the desires of the Socialists upon whom he depends for support.

Both these moves are indicative of the transition period through which European affairs are now passing. Each side is willing to compromise somewhat to bring the Dawes reparations program into execution but neither is willing or able to come to a definite showdown.

The German Government needs the good will or the neutrality of the Nationalists in order that the Reichstag may pass the measures essential to the Dawes plan. The Nationalists are utterly opposed to the military control of Germany. So the note that is sent is submissive in form but not in substance.

Berlin accepts the Allied demand for an investigation into the various military and pseudo-military activities Germans have been engaged in, but requests, first, that the investigation be held off for a month; second, that it begin with an inspection of factories; third, that a general inventory of armaments be delayed until the last possible moment.

The acceptance of these conditions would mean months of delay. The real purpose of Germany is to postpone any possible action until the Dawes plan is in operation. Germany is in the League of Nations and more normal relations are resumed. By that time, it is hoped in Berlin, the military phase can be forgotten.

Premier Herriot, on the other hand, realizes that the French cannot leave the Ruhr until a general settlement is assured—a settlement that will give France reparations and security. He has already proclaimed amnesty for Germans that were exiled from the Ruhr, but he will not yield to the demand of the French Socialists that the guarantee taken there be given up. He must maintain the groundwork of the Poincare policy.

In short, both the Paris and Berlin governments appear willing to sacrifice something to put the Dawes system into force. That much has been gained. But Herriot must still keep a sharp watch on the battle lines established by Poincare. Germany will not be slow to take advantage of any sign of weakness on the part of France.—Public Ledger.

THE MUD-GUNNERS GET THEIR ANSWER

Indictments found by a Federal Grand Jury in the District of Columbia against ex-Secretary Fall, Sinclair and the Dohenys will have the effect of transferring the naval oil lease scandal from the political to the judicial field.

These indictments have a deep significance in another important respect. They are an instant and crushing answer, from a source far removed from political partisanship, to the carping criticism of the Democratic keynotes. Hardly had the echoes of the bitter controversies in that assemblage died away, no sooner were the hypocritical reproaches of Senators Pat Harrison and Walsh uttered in that convention, when the machinery of justice already set in motion by President Coolidge and his legal counsel to ferret out corruption and punish the wrong-doers was formally applied to the task of determining the truth and apply the penalty for crime.

Mr. Roberts and ex-Senator Pomerene have not been unduly deliberate in their work. Nor have they tried the preliminaries of their case in the public eye. It would be out of place to discuss the case itself, now that it has reached the courts; but there is ground for general satisfaction that the procedure to follow will be uncolored by partisan prejudice but will be directed solely to elicit the truth in a matter where every attempt has been made to prejudice the questions involved, including the legality or otherwise of the oil leases and the personal guilt of the public officials and others who were concerned in their negotiation and execution.

Upon the outcome of this criminal action will depend grave issues of government policy, but the removal of the question from the arena of political strife is something in which the country can take legitimate satisfaction.

A BACHELOR'S TROUBLES

Again British newspapers are at the favorite indoor sport of choosing a bride for the Prince of Wales. His thirtieth birthday has supplied an additional incentive for the guesswork. In the meantime the object of popular and journalistic solicitude has given no hint of what his ultimate choice will be. He has made a secret at any time of his lack of enthusiasm for the royal responsibilities to which he will one day be summoned. And he is equally apathetic toward the well-meant suggestions of those who would force him into a "marriage de covenance" such as those to which royalty is often fated. For he means to make his own choice, as though he did not have a throne and scepter for his inheritance.

THE BETTER MAN

I'd taken a trimming at golf and I had excused myself with an alibi—It was hard luck here and 'twas hard luck there, With a penalty that was not just fair, And a lucky bound for the winning chap Which kept his ball from a yawning trap; But I know that my best was lame, For the records show that I lost the game.

I talked of the putts which should have dropped But got to the edge of the cup and stopped; I had many a hard luck tale to tell And men might have thought I was playing well As they heard mewlwhimper and wail and whine At the sad result of those shots of mine; But the prize was the other man's to claim, For the records prove that I lost the game.

By a curious chance I overheard A brief discussion of what occurred, There were two or three men who didn't know I could hear their talk, for they whispered low, And they never mentioned hard luck at all,

But they spoke of the way that I played the ball; And they said that I had but myself to blame, For they all agree I was "off my game."

The records are closed, and the frail excuse Which the lips give forth is of little use; The prize is lost and the thing is done, And it's vain to whimper I should have won. The world knows the reason why failures fall And it never mentions hard luck at all, For the world knows this—that in all we plan The victory goes to the better man.

Whenever I hear a housekeeper say, "I hate to wash dishes," I know that that housekeeper is not a happy woman. Why? Because the housekeeper who has found contentment doesn't mind a pile of soiled dishes; she hurries through them with a song on her lips.

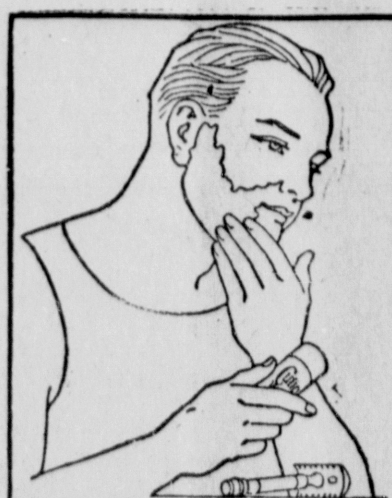

I base this statement on my observation of a good many housekeepers. I have invariably found that the contented woman is the one who can perform her irksome duties philosophically. And I believe that every woman can find this contentment which resigns her to her daily burdens. I believe that this statement comes through having a gripping interest of some sort outside of one's housework.

If you disagree with me in this contention, just watch the woman who is wrapped up in some big enterprise such as club work, church work or some particular way she found to make money at home; she rushes through her dishwashing and cleaning with her mind fixed eagerly on the reward which lies ahead—the reward of getting at last to the interest which absorbs her. She hasn't time to grumble about "the grind of housework." She is too much absorbed in that bigger interest to let her thoughts dwell on the necessary housekeeping duty at hand.

"But suppose I can't become interested in anything?" I think I heard some of my Reader Friends replying. To which I answer: "Make yourself take an interest in something outside of your work! For instance, start making one of the old-fashioned hooked rugs. You'll soon find that you won't be able to keep away from that rug-frame. (I have just finished making one myself, so I know from experience!) You are bound to become absorbed in it, once you start. Or, if you prefer, start to knit or crochet some garment; it will grow more fascinating as it increases in size.

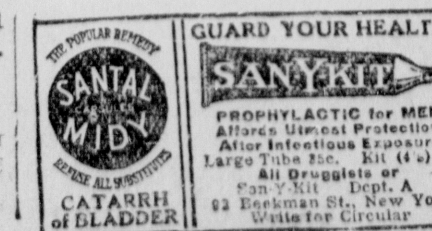

After all, we are all still children at heart. A child will master his school lessons twice as quickly if promised the reward of a picnic for so doing. And you and I, too, need some pleasure ahead if we would do our best work; the prospect of some interesting occupation awaiting us, lightens our more irksome tasks and keeps us from indulging in that most unworthy of all emotions; self-pity. We are tempted to feel sorry for ourselves only when we have no deep

CLEAR THE ATMOSPHERE

There is a great deal of repression in the world that ought to be relieved.

It isn't good for anyone to carry too many troubles or worries around with him. We should all find someone to whom we can safely tell and explain our difficulties and misunderstandings.

The mother understands and so offers relief to the child who loves her. There isn't a human being in this world who doesn't carry much of the child in him all through life. And so he craves someone to whom he can open up his heart.

Then there are folks who go around repressed, with mental chips on their shoulders perhaps against innocent persons.

The atmosphere should be cleared. There can't be too much frankness and open dealing. The atmosphere is always cleared, the heart is always flooded with sunshine and the body is given physical stimulation when things are let out—when burdens are shed.

Don't keep too much to yourself. It's like letting a lot of rubbish accumulate about an otherwise beautiful yard.

Clear up your thoughts and life. Seek clear, clean paths and then go ahead.

The fact that you have made mistakes in the past is no criterion for the future. It may rain tomorrow, but then again there is the chance that it will not. Why not expect the sunshine?

Give out. Untie the knots that restrain and lessen your happiness.

No matter what the trouble is, clear the atmosphere! (Many people can clear the atmosphere by just climbing out of themselves.)

RADIO SERVICE AT GAZETTE OFFICE ATTRACTS INTEREST

Day and night radio service broadcast direct from the scene of the Democratic national convention at Madison Square Garden, New York City, as part of the service extended patrons by the Evening Gazette and the Morning Republican has proven to be a popular feature of this week.

An instrument in the news room of these newspapers picks up the information direct from the convention platform, and gives these papers advance news service on the big meeting through a loud-speaking device in the news office. Connected with the same radio instrument a much larger speaker in front of the publication office has kept a crowd at attention day and night since the service was installed.

Window bulletins serve to furnish the sidewalk crowd with information on the ballot totals for comparison as the figures come over the radio. The listeners have been silent, orderly and attentive and frequently spoken praise for the enterprise of the service.

The newspapers have been able to give this service through the courtesy of the Anderson Plano Company, West Main Street, on a set belonging to that company and installed by Warlock McDill, its radio manager.

The spreading of the oil and rock on the road between Xenia and Dayton Township church completes the work begun on the pike last fall. It is now in better shape than ever before and by next spring, most of the principal roads leading to and from Xenia will have been repaired.

GETTING BACK TO NORMAL

Roger W. Babson Sees Even Production Of Coal But Advises Purchase

Babson Park, Mass., July 5, 1924.—The coal industry, important in itself and because of its effect on other industries, is getting back onto a normal basis, according to Roger W. Babson. The statistician discusses both bituminous and anthracite fields in a report issued today.

"The coal industry has been upset so long," says Mr. Babson, "that it is distinctly encouraging to find that it is preparing to get back onto a more normal basis. The feast and famine program promises to give way to something approximating three square meals a day for the operator, the miner, and finally, the consumer."

"The latest upset started last winter with the threat of a strike for this summer. To prepare for such an emergency the operators rushed to build up a reserve supply and the 1922 production of bituminous totalling 422,000,000 tons was topped with a volume of 545,000,000 tons in 1923. January of this year followed suit with 50,000,000 tons, and February totaled 45,000,000 then it became apparent that business was slowing up; the threatened strike was called off and a three year agreement with the miners was signed. Demand declined and the operators found themselves with a tremendous stock on their hands. In fact, April first showed our reserve supplies at 60,000,000 tons, the largest in recent years. Prices dropped to $2.10 at the mine and operations were curtailed,—during April, May and June production ran about 60 per cent of the average earlier in the year."

"Stocks are still relatively heavy but prices are down to $2.01 at the mine and demand is overtaking the supply. Under these circumstances it is probable that some of the high cost properties will have to close, but everyone will be better off with fewer producers working a greater part of the time. Prices may not go much below present quotations and certain keen buyers look forward slightly higher levels. However, there is little in the present situation to justify any radical change in either direction. Production meantime should follow its normal seasonal tendency with a possible slight increase as fall business demands materialize. Prudent buyers are covering their needs in the present market."

"Once the industry gets back into its stride it should hold it until some development threatens another coal shortage, then I suppose we shall all have to run the gauntlet again, taking our licks by turn. Such a shortage ordinarily develops from a combination of three factors. If business gets to booming and the demand for coal is unusually heavy, prices climb and the buyers rush in to protect their need. Result—a temporary shortage. There is nothing in the present situation (the Babsonchart shows general business activity at thirteen per cent below normal) to promise any shortage from this source for the remainder of this year, at least. Threatened labor difficulties have a similar effect on the market, but the three year agreement now in force precludes the probability of shut downs on this score. The third factor is transportation. When coal cannot be moved from the mines it might as well not exist as far as the market is concerned. Plenty of cars and no congestion promise rapid transportation of coal during the remainder of the year."

"The anthracite industry has not suffered so great a slump as the bituminous because no strike was threatened and stocks were not built up to such a great extent. Production in 1923 of 95,000,000 tons has been followed by production around 7,000,000 tons a month this year. Low prices for the year are ordinarily reached in April when a differential is put into effect to speed early deliveries. This usual monthly increase is now scheduled and will probably continue. Little change in wholesale prices may be expected.

"Retail coal dealers are facing a serious problem. The public is not buying this summer in the usual volume. Many of the retail dealers, lacking more storage space or sufficient capital, are being forced to refuse their shipments as they come from the mines. The operators in this case curtail production and are only mining as much coal as the dealers can take. If this continues we will find everyone clamoring for coal September first. It will be physically impossible for the dealer to get and he should have been delivering all deliver in a single month the summer. Under these circumstances a local shortage may easily develop and we will all be rushing around trying to get coal at any price."

"There is little chance of prices going any lower under the existing conditions and the wise man will get his coal in now when he can get delivered, thus avoiding possible short ages and the bother of trying to get it late this fall."

"The consuming public may also be interested," concluded Mr. Babson, "in the recent findings of the Canadian Geological Survey which reports on new fields in Alberta which promise to supply anthracite, bituminous, and lignite coal for all of Canada for many years. This spells smaller exports from our own supply and precludes the probability of more shortages, as severe as the last two."

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Harner and daughter Jane, who attended the International Rotary Convention in Toronto, Canada, and who have since made a trip down the St. Lawrence river and visited Boston and points of interest in the east, are expected to arrive home Saturday night.

Mr. William R. Forker, Los Angeles, Cal., was visiting friends in this city over the Fourth. Mr. Forker lived in Xenia thirty years ago and this was his first visit since leaving the city.

The condition of Mrs. W. A. Galoway, of West Main Street, who has been seriously ill for several weeks remains about the same. She was resting comfortably Saturday.

Signs Of The Times

Along the business streets of any town the signs on the different stores tell you instantly the kind of a store you are passing. "Gentlemen's Furnishings," "Dry Goods," "Drugs," "Candy and Ice Cream"—these and similar signs keep you from going into a bakery for a cake of soap.

Then, too, these stores, have show windows and counters which actually display their wares. You can tell instantly where to get an electric washer or a lock washer—a bolt of cloth or a bolt for a door.

Going through the A-B-C Classified Section of the Evening Gazette and Morning Republican is just the same!

This section has signs at the top of each department to tell you what class of offers you are passing—and under each sign you will see an actual display of individual offers which are grouped together.

RESERVES BACK IN WIN COLUMN WITH DOUBLE HOLIDAY VICTORY

By L. J. WONES

The Xenia Reserves got back into the win column when they took both games from the Olt's Superbas at Washington park, Friday.

The Reserves won the first game by a 6 to 4 score. After trailing for six innings they made a rally in the seventh that won the game for them, Schwab's triple scoring the tying runs.

McDonnell made his first appearance of the year in a Reserve uniform and pitched an excellent game but was given a bit of trouble at the start owing to ragged support but from the fifth on until the climax he held the Dayton line scoreless. He fanned eight and walked three and let the opposition down with three scant hits one of them being of the scratch variety.

Loker, who opposed McDonnell on the rubber was invincible until the sixth when the locals took a liking to his slants and pounded out a victory. Up until the sixth Loker had held the local line to two bingles.

The visitors were first to score in the first inning as the result of a walk, stolen base, sacrifice and a passed ball. They added another in the second on McDonnell's choice, two passed balls by Greene and a fouled fly ball by F. Fuller. The Out outfit not being satisfied with a two run lead added a pair of tallies in the third on a fielder's choice, a pair of errors and a double steal.

The Reserves breezed along until the sixth when they got busy and broke into the scoring column. Schwab was safe on Ochs's errors. D. Fuller walked. Randall bunted down to third and advancing Schwab to third and Fuller to second. Randall was also safe at first getting a hit. Fuller bunted and Schwab and advancing all runners a base. Cyphers filed out to Studenberg but D. Fuller was held at third from where he scored on Greene's fly.

The locals won the game on hits by McDonnell, Cain and Schwab and a double by Randall, who scored later on a passed ball, while Schwab also scored on a wild pitch by Loker.

Second Game

The second game was the best of the two being a tight pitcher's battle between Cyphers of the locals and Howell of the Olt nine. The former had the edge letting the Dayton out, fit down with three hits while he gave good support, his mates making but three errors behind him only one of these proving costly.

Howell pitched airtight ball but was touched up to some extent by the local batsmen who got to him for seven bingles. Howell had a nice curve ball and fanned eight of the Reserves while he did not issue any walks.

The Reserves were first to score in the second round after Randall hit safely down the third base line, stole second and went to third on Kelly's wild pig. F. Randall fanned and Cline followed suit but Kelly dropped the third strike and pegged Cline out at first. In the meantime Randall made home on a close play at the plate.

The visitors knotted the count at one hit in the fifth after Drake got a lucky hit, his ground ball striking Cyphers in the foot and bounding away. Howell doubled to center and Fuller pegged to Cline who made a nice throw to catch Drake at home but Randall dropped the ball letting Drake score the tying run. The next three batters were retired in order.

The Reserves scored what proved to be the winning run in the sixth as Cyphers led off with a single to right and went to second on Cain's bunt down the first base line. Schwab bunted and all hands were safe. J. Fuller fled to Drake and Cyphers scored after the catch. Fuller and Randall fanned.

The entire Reserve team played heads up ball in the second encounter. Schwab, J. Fuller, Randall, Cline,

RED CROSS HELPS IN RELIEF WORK IN STORM CITY

Everyone in Greene County who aided the Red Cross at the time of the last Roll Call, conducted by the county organization, will have a part in the relief work at Lorain, O., which was struck by a tornado last Saturday.

The relief committee appointed by Governor A. V. Donahy, on its return from Lorain Wednesday, voted to turn all relief work in the storm area over to the National Red Cross. Fifty cents of every dollar turned into the Red Cross at the time of the annual Roll Call is in turn given over to the national Red Cross, for use in case of disaster, such as struck Lorain last week.

The local chapter of the Red Cross will make no solicitation for aid in Lorain, since the fund sent to headquarters at the time of the Roll Call takes care of that. Any local organization that desires to make a solicitation for money, however, according to Red Cross officials.

The Red Cross officials took over the work at daylight Thursday and the organization will donate $50,000 to the relief fund in addition to carrying all overhead costs of relief work. The loss at Lorain is estimated at $25,000,000 to $30,000,000. Blanks were distributed to those sustaining losses on which they are required to give the nature and amount of loss sustained and resources.

Airmen from McCook Field, Dayton, are to be detailed to take pictures from the air of the ruined city, to give officials an idea of how to rebuild Lorain and to meet similar storms in the future.

WISE CRACKER IS GIVEN WISE ANSWER

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 5—Despite a jumping back and forth with a pad and pencil trying to find out how the Missouri delegates wanted to vote, Colonel Charles M. Hay found time today to send a wise cracking telegram to a volunteer sage in St. Louis.

The adviser telegraphed collect: "Get off McAdoo; be an American," to which Hay sent an answer paid with said: "I am not seeking advice on Americanism, from men too cheap to pay for a telegram."

WATERSPOUT NOT TORNADO IN LORAIN

Cleveland, July 3.—According to Rev. F. J. Odenbach of John Carroll university, the storm that struck Lorain and other northern Ohio points, taking the lives of more than 80, was a waterspout or "line squall" and not a tornado. "The yellow streamers accompanying the cloud, and its general shape place it in the line squall class. The average layman would call it a waterspout," Rev. Odenbach said. "A tornado has the appearance of a huge elephant's head sticking out of the sky with trunk trailing on the ground. It sweeps a clean path and is likely to pick up a house and set it down a half mile away."

Newton to Head Educators. Washington, July 3.—Josiah H. Newton, superintendent of schools of Denver, Colo., was named by the nominating committee to be president of the National Education association in convention here. Twelve candidates for vice president and other officers also were selected, and it is expected all the nominations will be approved at a general meeting.

SCHOOL TEACHER'S FRIENDS MADE GLAD

One of them had this to say yesterday. "We never thought that poor Ellen would ever recover, she had suffered so long from stomach and liver trouble and had lost more than 40 pounds in weight. She took a bottle of May's Wonderful Remedy upon the advice of her aunt and has steadily improved from the first dose. We are all confident of her complete recovery." It removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract, and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach and liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at Sayre & Hemphill's and druggists everywhere.

LOVE-OR FAME?

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED.

DOROTHY LANE goes to New York to visit.

FERGUS GRANT and try to break into the movies. She meets

LAWRENCE FRENCH, a young publicity man, and after a quarrel with

SYLVIA STEARNS and lives there. Through French she meets

JOHN SEWARD, a famous star, and is engaged as his leading lady in an independent production that he is making. Seward, known as "the great lover of the screen," falls in love with her.

XXII—MY FIRST PROPOSAL.

At first I could hardly believe that I'd really heard what John Seward said. To think of a motion-picture star proposing to me!

I suppose I must have looked absolutely stupid, for he laughed a little even as he took my hands in his and kissed them. "I think I've loved you from the very first," he told me. "You're so unlike any one I've ever known. I was all but born on the stage, you know, and I've spent my whole life among its people and in the studios. I never knew a real girl till I met you."

But even while he was talking to me, telling me how happy he'd make me, and planning the most wonderful future, I couldn't believe that it was all real. I'd so often gone to the movies with the girls back home and seen him on the screen, and we'd talked about what he was probably like, and how it would seem to act with him and have him make love to you. And now here he was really telling me that he loved me and wanted me to be his wife! Do you wonder that I couldn't believe it?

It was funny perhaps, and yet I couldn't help wishing that I'd never seen him off the screen. You see, he'd always seemed so wonderful then. But now, right up close, I could see lots of things about him that I'd have liked to have changed. Oh, I suppose it would be that way with Dick Barthelmess or Bert Lytell or any of them, perhaps. But as I sat there and looked at him I couldn't help thinking that it was too bad, in a way, that we'd ever met.

"We'll run out to the Coast as soon as this picture's done," he promised, still holding my hand in his. "I think I've loved you from the very first," he said.

him, and have him take me to the movies again, and for bus rides and all that sort of thing. I knew, all at once, that I cared a good deal more for him than I'd supposed I did. "And you will marry me, won't you, dear, just as soon as we get back to town?" urged John Seward. "I don't believe I can," I told him, wondering even as I did so how I dared refuse a man like him. "Somehow I can't be quite sure—I don't just know."

"Is it because of my having been married before that you hesitate?" he asked. That was a shock to me; I hadn't even known that he had been married, and told him so.

"Yes, I was," he told me then, and named the girl—one of the most prominent stars on the screen to-day. "We were married five years ago, and separated a year later. We're still good friends—we just didn't get along together. In fact, I dined with her and her husband the last time I was in Los Angeles."

"You see, in the motion-picture world marriage isn't always looked upon as it is among other people; so many things have to be considered—the different way of living and all that—that divorce seems more natural than it does to people who aren't familiar with those conditions."

one of his; I couldn't get it away, even though I tried. "And, you'll meet all the bunch out there." I wondered why I didn't feel almost too happy to live. But I didn't. I couldn't say why it was that I didn't feel that way, but I knew that something was wrong.

And then, all at once, I knew what it was. Marrying would mean giving up Lawrence French.

I didn't think I was in love with him exactly. But I'd missed him a lot since I left New York. He hadn't written me at all, and neither had Sylvia. And I was anxious to get back and talk things over with
